Here the houses become more scattering, and a short distance beyond the open country is reached and a trout hatchery is seen in a little hollow on the left. At Apricot street, on the right, one passes the nearest point to where a curious old deed, drawn in legal form, is carved on the face of a great rock, deeding the surrounding country to Almighty God. Unfortunately, this interesting spot is nearly a mile from the nearest point of the electric line. Beyond Apricot street, Kettle Brook runs along merrily at the left, and Valley Falls, with its numerous mills, is soon passed. Just beyond Valley Falls the car enters Leicester, the first village in which is known as CHERRY VALLEY. Beyond this comes a series of pretty groves and then a thick growth of underbrush. Some distance beyond the Roman Catholic Church, which stands on an eminence at the left, are the shining waters of Waite s Pond. At the bottom of the hill the car leaves the well-kept State highway over which it has been running, and makes a detour to the right to avoid Leicester Hill. Winslow avenue, which runs through the estate of Col. Samuel E. Winslow, whose handsome residence is on the main road at the left, is followed for a distance, and then through Paxton street the car enters LEICESTER. As the car turns to the right, to once more traverse the State road,...
