Not illustrated. 1915 Excerpt: .the relationship between teachers salaries in these systems and class size has been calculated by the Pearson coefficient. As in the case of promotion rates, the coefficients indicate a lack of relationship. Although no claim is made that this absence of relationship applies to anything except teachers salaries and class size, it probably is symptomatic of the relationship of the entire budget to the class size. Figures for February, 1914. 1 Data for System G incomplete. Such computation as could be made indicates the same general lack of relationship. Section 5 The question of class size has been studied in some detail by a number of investigators. The most important contributions have been made by Rice, Bachman, Cornman and Boyer. In two extensive investigations Dr. Rice studied among other things the attainment reached by pupils in the elementary school in classes of different sizes. He tested...
